RICKENBACKER PILOT PICKED UP IN PACIFIC

Capt. William T. Cherry of Texas, Is Found Alive On Life Raft

HOPE RENEWED FOR WORLD WAR I ACE

Extensive Search is Being Made by Ships and Long Range Planes

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Hope for the rescue of Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, the famous World War ace who has been missing in the Pacific since Oct. 21, was revived today when the war department announced the rescue yesterday of a member of the crew of the plane which was last heard from over Hawaiian waters.

Hopefully the war department said:

"It is believed possible that other survivors may be on life rafts in the same general vicinity."

Days after the plane disappeared, Secretary of War Stimson still held hope of Rickenbacker's rescue, commenting that the flier was "an exception to ordinary rules."

Texas Is Rescued

The rescued flier was Capt. William T. Cherry, Jr., of Abilene, Tex. The department said he was picked up by the navy yesterday, "in good condition, but weak."

The rescue immediately intensified search of the vast ocean areas south of Honolulu where Rickenbacker's plane disappeared Oct. 21, when the World War flying ace was enroute to the South Pacific to survey army air forces for Secretary of War Stimson and Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, air force chief.

The war department said in announcing Capt. Cherry's rescue that in the unidentified area of the South Pacific where he was found, "an intensive search of the area is being made by surface vessels and long-range planes."

Cherry was pilot of the Rickenbacker plane. It was last heard from on Oct. 21 in a message picked up by an island station southward of Honolulu saying sufficient fuel remained for only about one hour's flight.

GOVERNOR RETAINS PRESENT CABINET

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13.—Gov. John W. Bricker wants all members of Ohio's present official family to serve with him during his third term starting Jan. 11.

The governor, meeting with his cabinet and chief administrative officers yesterday, asked all of them to serve again and requested that departmental heads prepare legislative amendments designed to enhance the state's war effort.

These amendments included one of which would reduce the state's automobile speed limit from 50 to 35 miles an hour, and another that would alter statutes governing working hours for women.

Gonda Engineering Plant, Salem's Youngest Industry, Is Dedicated To Democracy

President John H. Gonda and Associates Entertain Employees At Dinner; Cleveland Ordnance Officer Is Chief Speaker

The modern "dream" plant of the Gonda Engineering Company, Inc., on the Georgetown rd. just off W. State st., was dedicated "to the cause of our democracy" last night as President John H. Gonda and his associates entertained employees and their ladies at a dinner and program in the new building.

In the group of about 175 were several special guests, all of whom were received by Mr. and Mrs. Gonda as they entered the attractive building. Before dinner, served in the spacious production part of the structure by Goshen grange women, the guests inspected the beautiful offices and the jigs and dies and other products manufactured in the plant which is on a 100 percent war production basis.

In dedicating the new plant, John Gonda referred to the company's aim as printed on a souvenir booklet:

"With the cooperation and loyal support of our employees we will strive to produce to our utmost—to uphold our standards and to do our very best for the cause of democracy."

"That these aims may be fulfilled and that ultimate victory may be ours we respectfully dedicate our new plant."

Recalling that he had built this plant in his mind several years ago and had changed the design from time to time, he said it was the fulfillment of his life's ambition. But he gave full credit to his mother, his wife, his brothers and sisters who had given him encouragement, and to his loyal employees.

As the program opened with Atty. W. Edmund Peters as toastmaster, short talks were given by Rev. Fr. Maurice Casey of Youngstown, former pastor of St. Paul's Catholic church, and by Mayor R. G. Johnson. Lester Kille, in behalf of himself and his partner, Arthur Haessly, general contractors, and the sub-contractors, presented President Gonda with a gold watch.

The principal address of the evening was given by Lieut. J. A. Holan of the Cleveland Ordnance district. Referring to latest developments on the war fronts, he said:

"Here at your own plant you cannot fall back upon your laurels. Your new plant is now in production, but it must hit an even higher level than you have reached so far. Like our own boys in Africa and the South Pacific you have just begun to fight."

"Remember this: It takes us nearly a year of war-time effort to equip the men who are now in Africa, along with those still in Britain, in Australia, in the Caribbean, the South Pacific and also in training here at home. But these men are only a part of the huge army we are going to have, an army which is growing every day."

"This great war of ours calls for teamwork here at home, all down the line. This new kind of war is won not by armies and navies alone, but by whole people, fighting as people. It calls for the same kind of whole-hearted devotion from you that you can expect to receive from the men on the fighting fronts."

Important Job

"The job you are doing here is just as important. The dies and jigs you are making here will help to make ordnance, and ordnance will help those men of ours to do the jobs that are determined to do."

THANKSGIVING DAY SERVICE IS PLANNED

Meeting yesterday at the Memorial building, the Salem Ministerial association inaugurated plans for the annual union Thanksgiving services.

The service will be held at 9:30 a. m. at the First Presbyterian church, with the sermon by Rev. Robert E. Mosher, pastor of the Friends church.

There will be music by the combined youth choir of the city. Additional details of the program will be announced later.

Motorists Again Reminded To Turn In Excess Tires

Despite postponement of registration for gasoline rationing, Ohio motorists should turn in tires in excess of five to an automobile to avoid difficulties in obtaining coupon books, asserts Harry T. Beckmann, state OPA director.

Basic "A" coupon books will not be issued to persons owning excess tires when they register Nov. 18, 19 and 20, he said.

ITALY PROPS DEFENSES AS ALLIES GAIN

Morale Drops to New Low As Americans, British Take Over N. Africa

QUIT TREMBLING. LEADERS EXHORT

Hitler Said To Be Sending Troops From Russia Into Italy

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Faced with its first threat of invasion in the war, a quaking Italy is hastily looking to its defenses against American and British troops, radio reports today indicated.

The obvious apprehension among the Fascists was considered all the more significant by those acquainted with wartime Italy because an Allied invasion still is believed here to be a long way off.

Italian morale, meanwhile, almost certainly has reached a new low as the first effect of Allied occupation of French North Africa. This statement is based on first-hand knowledge of the fluctuations of Italian morale in the past, particularly during the ill-starred Greek campaign. It is backed by the Fascist propaganda ministry's broadcasts to the people.

"Cease Trembling" Order

As overheard by American listening posts, the Rome radio is exhorting Italians to cease their trembling. Dictator Benito Mussolini's Popolo d'Italia has called on Italians to hold fast (tener duro), a now familiar plea in times of stress on the internal front. The duke used it particularly a year ago when Italians began to grumble more or less openly at the pinch of stringent food rationing.

This is not to say that Italians, bowed by 20 years of Fascism and now by the Germans in their midst, are ready for revolt, although a rebellion might develop from a successful invasion.

Reports reaching government circles in Washington tell merely of a little more deterioration in morale since we left Rome last May, the same suppressed animosity toward the Germans and the same friendly feeling toward Americans.

With such a feeling prevailing, Hitler is said to be diverting German army divisions from Russia to Italy.

They would be the first German infantry to occupy Italy. The estimated 250,000 Germans on Italian soil thus far have been aviation units, complete with ground and supply crews, and sailors for German submarines in the Mediterranean, as well as gunners for Italian warships. Mussolini has been holding out for a million or more men under arms in Italy against invasion while his propagandists were attempting to laugh off the possibility.

Presumably any Allied invasion "over" would try first to take the islands, Sicily, Sardinia and Corsica, hat form unsinkable "aircraft carriers" for the Italian and German air forces on the invasion route.

They told the group of the courage and determination of Morris Frank founder of the Seeing Eye dog plant in his effort to help the blind.

Frank lost his sight at the age of 15 years while hunting in the hills of his native Tennessee. When he discovered that a woman in Switzerland had experimented with German shepherds and found some of them to be instinctive leaders of the blind, he went to that country and came home with the first "Seeing Eye" dog six months later.

Frank attended high school and Vanderbilt university and then undertook the proposition of raising funds for the purpose of building a school where other dogs might be trained. He realized his ambition and is still training the intelligent animals after 15 years in Morristown, N. J. He now has 800 dogs working for the sightless.

Henry J. Kaiser's Miracle Ship

BULLETIN SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—Another ship construction record was set on San Francisco bay today. The Pacific Bridge company launched the 8,000-ton freighter Samuel Very 80 hours after the keel was laid.

This shattered Henry J. Kaiser's record, set yesterday at his Richmond No. 2 yard, of 111½ hours for the larger cargo carrier, Robert E. Peary.

The Richmond, Cal., shipyards of Henry J. Kaiser chalk up another miracle of shipbuilding with the launching of the Robert E. Peary four days and 15 hours after the key of the 10,000-ton Liberty ship was laid. It is seen sliding down the ways, fully completed and ready to carry war materials to the Allied fronts.

Insist On Blackout In Rural Areas, Too

When Salem's test blackout occurs in the near future, rural areas surrounding the city also will be expected to blackout.

The necessity of the township sections being organized into home defense units is a vital one.

The rural areas, like the municipalities, should be organized for air raid protection. Bombs don't always fall on cities. A near miss would place a bomb beyond the city proper.

In the event of a raid and you're at home, go into your refuge room and close the door. Make yourself comfortable. Relax. If bombs fall near you, lie down. A good place is under a table with sturdy legs, or a strong couch turned upside down.

Put out all lights you can not closely screen.

The light's that's out or covered tight will never guide a Nazi or Jap.

SALEM IS HIT BY COLD WAVE

Mercury Drop Forecast: High, Wind Sweeps Over District

Salem was hit today by the first cold wave of the season, with a drop in temperatures expected tonight.

A minimum of 30 degrees was recorded last night as strong winds howled a reminder of blustery, wintry weather. No particular damage from the wind in this section was reported, although at Youngstown high tension lines were blown down at the Ohio works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., resulting later in the explosion of two blast furnaces. Five workmen were scalded.

Snow flurries whitened Salem this morning but slightly rising temperatures caused the snow to melt.

Predicts Mercury Drop

George W. Mindling, meteorologist at the Columbus weather bureau, said, however, that temperatures would tumble as much as 20 to 25 degrees by tomorrow morning, according to an Associated Press report.

On the basis of recordings at the time the prediction was made, this would send readings to the low 20's. The wind is expected to diminish late today.

Thousands of tons of iron and steel production were lost at the Carnegie-Illinois plant in Youngstown when two blast furnaces blew out.

Furnaces Nos. 5 and 6 were partly wrecked by the blasts, heard in most parts of the city and attributed indirectly to high winds. In addition, tons of metal in other furnaces served by the same power line were chilled.

Police said high tension lines

Foe Believed Preparing To Quit Tunisia

British Eighth Advances 305 Miles from El Alamein To Tobruk; American - British Columns Now Near Or On the Tunisian Border

By ROGER D. GREENE Associated Press War Editor

The great 2,500-mile allied pincers sweep against the Axis armies in North Africa was fast closing today as British troops captured historic Tobruk, 80 miles inside Libya, and indications arose that the Axis might be quitting Tunisia.

From Agadir, westernmost landing place of American Expeditionary Forces in Morocco, to El Alamein, where the British Egyptian offensive started, the distance is approximately 2,500 miles, covering the whole arc of North Africa.

American and British columns are now reported near or on the Tunisian border, 1,200 miles east of Agadir.

With the 305-mile British advance from El Alamein to Tobruk, the gap between the two armies thus stands at less than 1,000 miles.

British headquarters announced that the victorious British desert armies entered Tobruk this morning and the Axis was in headlong flight.

As the imperial Eighth army's westward race and the British-American thrust eastward from French North Africa swiftly closed around the remnants of the Axis' forces, the British announced that RAF fighters had shot down six "big" Italian troop-carrying planes, flying north, probably from Tunisia, and filled with German troops.

This meant possibly that the Germans hastily were pulling out of Tunisia, the last buffer between the Allies in the west and Tripoli, the capital and final citadel of Italian Libya.

(An Allied headquarters spokesman in London said he did not know definitely that the six destroyed transport planes—shot down presumably by long-range British fighters from Malta—meant a precipitous Axis exit from Tunisia, but "I hope it does mean that.")

(Other sources speculated that the troops shot down might have been technicians sent to Tunisia solely to destroy equipment which might help the Allies.)

Hot on Rommel's heels, the Eighth army picked up Axis stragglers in the El Aden area, just inland from the Mediterranean south of Tobruk, and allied planes hounded the retreat, hitting road transport beyond Tobruk and sinking several supply-laden barges moving westward in the Mediterranean.

JOHN GONDA'S DREAM HOUSE

Most "castles in the air" remain suspended in the air throughout the lives of those who dream them, but John Gonda has seen his dreams blossom forth into full realization. For years he had built his own engineering plant only in his mind, but because he had vision and determination and courage—yes, a full measure of courage—the fulfillment of his life's ambition has given him and Salem its most modern industrial plant.

Last night John Gonda dedicated this dream plant "to the cause of democracy". It's more than just a building within whose four walls are being built jigs and dies with all the precision and speed his faithful employees can command to help the war effort. It is a beautiful building, with its modern glass block walls—artistic inside and out. But it is more than just an attractive accomplishment of the contractors who erected it, plus the engineering ability of the man who designed it. It is a "dream" plant, embodying the heart and soul of John Gonda, a Salem boy who has made good after starting from scratch because he would not let discouragement overcome him.

It took courage for John Gonda to give up his position as chief engineer of Salem's largest industrial plant two years ago to start his own little plant with five employees. It took more than courage, but John had all of the engineering ability and initiative and aggressiveness required to make that small start and then to push on until he could establish himself and his 70 employees in his own building.

John had defied the old injunction that "you can't mix sentiment with business". He did just that, and it is largely because of that, not in spite of it, that he has been so successful. It was a proud moment for him last night as he dedicated all of this—the attractive building designed by himself for the utmost in production efficiency, the achievement of a life's ambition into which he had put sentiment as well as executive and engineering ability—but in his modest way so characteristic of the man, John Gonda gave most of the credit to his mother, his wife his brothers and sisters and to his loyal employees.

This pride, so richly deserved, is shared by all of Salem, and his legion of friends rejoice in his accomplishment. The News is happy to join in congratulations and to wish a man who deserves to succeed as John Gonda has succeeded, Godspeed toward greater accomplishments.

SIX WORKERS, ONE FIGHTER

The President's use of 9,700,000 as the fighting force needed by the end of 1943 satisfies one requirement of any program of man-power planning.

It now will be possible to say that 9,700,000 fighting men must be subtracted from the total of available existing manpower. From the balance must be subtracted the total of government employees, unemployed and workers needed to maintain the civilian economy. The remainder will be the number of workers available for war production, augmented by whatever can be done to add women not now counted as part of the existing manpower to the labor force.

The present employed labor force is probably 55,000,000. Perhaps another 4,000,000 men will be taken into the armed forces, leaving a total of 51,000,000. At least 60,000,000 workers will be needed to support the war effort at its peak. There are at least 9,000,000 places to be filled.

The 18-19-year-old draft will cut perhaps a million off the 4,000,000 total of existing manpower to be taken into the armed forces. The population increase will add a million to the labor force during 1943. Perhaps half a million can be salvaged from those classified as unemployable. The rest will be women brought into industrial employment as war workers, or to relieve men and other women for war work.

With the total for the armed forces established, the proportions of the manpower problem become plain. The job is to provide six producers for each fighter. In general terms, the United States at its war peak will reach a 6-6-1 ratio—six non-producers six producers, and one man in armed service.

BEATING HITLER AT HIS OWN GAME

Adolf Hitler is wasting no more time with the myth of sovereignty in unoccupied France. The Vichy "government" simply is brushed aside; its usefulness is ended. The conqueror of France must now defend his conquered territory—all of it—not only against the enemy outside the borders but against Frenchmen inside the borders. The issue has been joined squarely.

Hitler's most urgent need is to counter the blow being prepared for him in Africa. He has lost the advantage this time of striking first while the opposition is looking the other way. The African move by the United States, following Britain's successful drive in Egypt, caught Hitler napping. This time the too-little-too-late curse hangs over his head. Instead of unoccupied France was supposed to block the way to the German frontier and neutralize North Africa as a war zone. For more than two years Hitler sought to fool his enemies with myth of French sovereignty and the possibility of French resistance to their armed force. The game was played so well that almost everybody was misled, but chiefly Hitler, himself.

It is plain now that by pretending to believe in the myth of French sovereignty the United States outwitted Hitler at his own game. When he realized that United States troops were "violating French neutrality" by landing in France's African territory he was too late to stop them. There remained nothing to do but abandon the pretext and occupy the remainder of France in preparation for the invasion he hoped to forestall.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, November 14

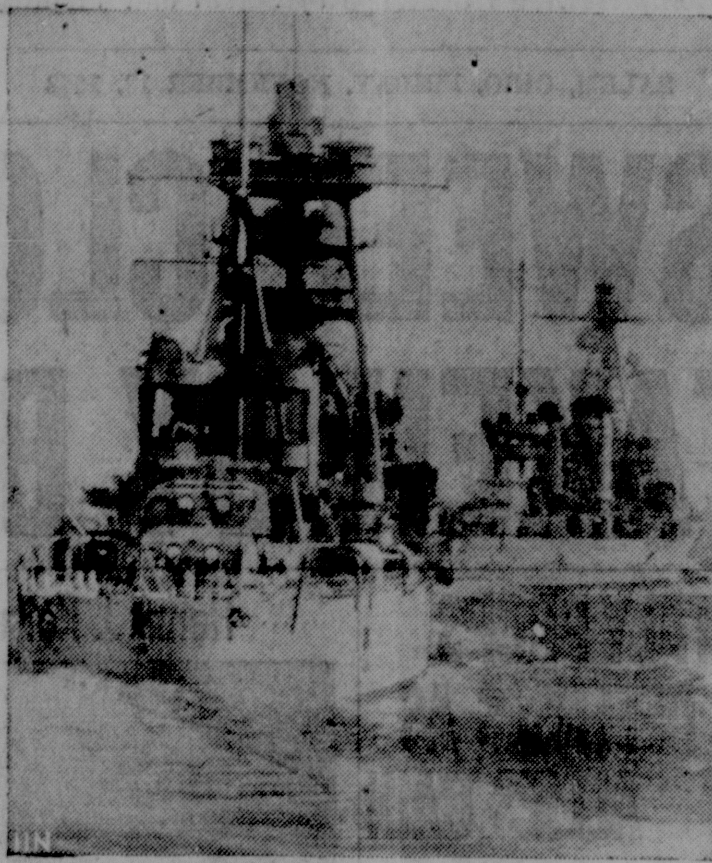

THE ASTRAL indications for this day hold conflict and contradictions. There may be a decidedly dependable factor making for sound success, with promise of building it upon foundations of depth, endurance and good judgment in conjunction with industry, perseverance and patience in the face of frustrating conditions or impediments. The great danger may be from an inclination to fly into turbulent, reckless and impulsive action, with unguarded words and speech, although these may seem justifiable. Aim at and work definitely for stability and enduring worth, but be cautious with papers or writings and shun public involvements.

Those whose birthday it is may be given an opportunity to put the affairs on a firm basis by application, sound tactics and persistent efforts against doubtful and threatening situations or obstacles. This danger might be brought about by rash, impetuous or quarrelsome conduct, with un-governed acts, words and writings. Be particularly cautious with the latter and be careful not to be guilty of any public offense. With concentration on sound objectives and enduring results, fleeting frustrations may be translated into worthwhile benefits.

A child born on this day should have many sound and dependable abilities and qualities, assuring success and achievement, although it may be impetuous and unruly, also careless with papers, and may be easily imposed upon.

Man boasteth loudly of his toughness, yet what man is there among you who could escape pneumonia if he went out into the air on a frosty morning, with trousers cut to the knees, and the exposed portion of the limbs protected only by a thin coating of tan stain?

A Real Question Mark

Disposition of the French fleet, believed to be still at the Toulon naval base, holds the key to Allied conquest of North Africa. The Allies have appealed to the French Navy to join the Allied fleet. The Axis is trying to add the French men-o-war to their side. Conflicting reports as to the whereabouts of the main units of the fleet are keeping the world guessing. French battleships are shown above.

IDEAS CHANGE ON TUBERCULOSIS

Hereditary Conception Idea Is Out

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THE ENTIRE conception of tuberculosis has changed, and it has done so, not only during my lifetime, but really since I graduated from medical college and started in practice.

One of the early ideas was that it is hereditary. That had passed.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

into limbo before my time. We knew it was infectious, but we had no realization of how frequently it is transmitted from human being to human being.

The reason the older medical authorities thought it was hereditary was because it so often occurred in several members of a single family. Now we know the reason for this is that one person in a family will give it to the others. Infection occurs from adults to children.

We firmly believed in my student days that the diagnosis could be made by listening to the chest with a stethoscope if only you conducted the examination carefully enough. Now we know that at least half the cases are missed this way, no matter how expert the doctor is with his stethoscope, and that the X-ray is really the final test for diagnosis. The stethoscope is used merely to determine the degree of activity of a case.

Changes in Diagnosis
It used to be considered that the final and determining test for the diagnosis was finding the germs in the sputum. Now we know that if they are found it is a late case.

Under treatment it was taught like gospel 40 years ago that the patient could get well in his own home. Only a few arrangements had to be made to give him fresh air and the treatment would be just as successful at home as anywhere. Now the conviction is established that wherever possible the patient with tuberculosis should be placed in an institution, primarily in order to protect the other people in the home.

All that was needed for cure was supposed 40 years ago to be rest, fresh air and plenty of nourishing food. It is known now that it is almost impossible to cure a case of tuberculosis without surgical treatment, such as collapse of the lung. It certainly is true of what is known as the open case—one with a cavity.

New Treatment Realistic
Climate, the layman's hope and idea of the be-all of tuberculosis treatment, was regarded as very doubtfully beneficial then, and the doctrine still holds.

We still need rest, fresh air and good food although we do not stuff tuberculous patients with extra meals nowadays as much as we used to. Climate then, as now, is assessed to add about a one per cent advantage to any cure.

These changes in viewpoint have certainly proved themselves in practice and have done much to help the improved results. They are often hard for the afflicted one to face, but they are certainly realistic.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
F. J. M.—I have been rejected by the Army because of "albuminuria, persistent, cause undetermined." I feel good and am in perfect health, 28 years old. What should I do about this condition?

Answer: I have seen a number of these cases of albuminuria in otherwise healthy young men. I used to pick them up in life insurance examinations. I followed as many as I could for a number of years and they never developed any serious kidney trouble. It is thought to be orthostatic—present only when standing and walking. It certainly does not mean kidney disease. Sometimes there is tuberculosis or anemia. It is worth having a doctor examine you on that account.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

To relieve distress of MONTHLY Female Weakness AND HELP BUILD UP RED BLOOD! Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound TABLETS (with added iron) have helped thousands to relieve periodic pain with weak, nervous, blue feelings—due to functional monthly disturbances. Also, their iron makes them a fine hematic tonic to help build up red blood. Pinkham's Tablets are made especially for women. Follow label directions.

Remember... the effectiveness of your doctor's prescription relies upon three fundamentals: Expert compounding—full strength—fresh materials—and a rigid adherence to the use of ingredients specified. That is why we urge you to bring your prescription to the Rexall Drug Store... where extra attention is given to these three priceless ingredients.

Gonda Engineering Office
ers, Workers stress Cause
Of Democracy

For you to be absent from duty without leave is just as serious as for a soldier or a sailor or a marine to be absent from his.

Following this address a program was presented by Bill Stewart's entertainers, featuring Ramon and Diane, dance stylists; Clarence Babcock, colored dramatic singing actor; Angeline Manzella, accordionist.

Don Harvey and his orchestra played throughout the evening, including dancing by the guests after the program had been concluded.

Two years ago John H. Gonda, then chief engineer of the Mullins Manufacturing Corp., started his own plant with five employees, the work being done in the former Jessup pattern shop on W. State Street. Three months after Pearl Harbor the plant had gone into full production and today the employees number 70.

President Gonda stated last night that the company's business this year was three times larger than last year, and that a great backlog of orders is on the books today.

Other officers of the company are: Vice president, Stephen A. Gonda, the president's twin brother; secretary-treasurer, E. C. Bradley, his brother-in-law; directors, the three officers and Mrs. John Gonda and E. M. Stephenson. James Helm is plant superintendent; William E. Carver design engineer; Arthur Coy night foreman; Claude C. Wilkinson machine foreman; Zen Taylor pattern shop foreman.

The average time required to move a scrapped jalopy from an auto graveyard to a steel furnace has been reduced from 60 days to a national average of 45 days, in some parts of the country, to 24 days.

If you are about 60 years old, your heart probably has thumped 2,200,000,000 times, physicians estimate.

Jeepers, Creepers! Turkey Blitz in Jeeps!

Praise the Lord and pass the cranberries, brother, that great day is coming! Soldiers at Camp Lee, Virginia, are rounding up the gobblers for Thanksgiving and they're doing it with jeeps, as you can see in the picture above.

Art's To Observe
19th Anniversary

Arrangements have been completed by Art, the Jeweler, for the observance of the 19th anniversary of the local merchandising organization.

The anniversary observance will formally get under way tomorrow. It follows the completion of a store remodeling program in which practically every department has been renovated and improved.

Every department has been extensively restocked for the occasion, including both the jewelry and appliance department and the clothing store. Plenty of Christmas stock is also on hand.

NAZIS OPEN HEAVY NEW DRIVE ON REDS

All Assaults Are Repelled Is Declaration From Moscow

MOSCOW, Nov. 13.—Repeated German attacks, which Red Star characterized as the beginning of a new Nazi offensive, were hurled at the defenders of Stalingrad yesterday but the Russians declared today that all the assaults had been repelled with heavy Nazi losses.

The Red army organ said the Germans had thrown overwhelmingly superior forces into the battle and the midday communiqué of the Soviet information bureau described the fighting as fierce.

Northwest of the Volga river city, Russian troops repulsed an enemy attack and wiped out 150 Nazis, the bulletin added.

The government organ Izvestia reported meanwhile that Russian aviators of the Black sea fleet had made a damaging surprise raid with parachutists on a German air-drome near Malkop in the Caucasus.

Following a heavy aerial bombardment, Izvestia said, the parachutists—armed with special equipment—were dropped on the field, where they set fire to 13 planes and damaged 10 more. They also were reported to have burned a railway station.

ARGENTINA EYES N. AFRICAN ACTION

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 13.—Argentina is watching "with solidarity and interest" the steps which the United States is taking to safeguard the security of the Americas, Foreign Minister Enrique Ruiz Guinazu advised Secretary of State Hull last night.

The foreign minister's message, which voiced faith in the "high continental ideals" of the United States, was the first official expression of sentiment by the Argentine government since the landing of American troops in French North Africa.

Argentina and Chile are the only American nations that have not broken relations with the Axis. President Juan Antonio Rios of Chile previously had cabled President Roosevelt to express his approval of the African action.

Tax Authority Dies

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13.—Prof. Henry Freeman Waldrat of Ohio State university, nationally known authority on taxation, is dead at 57.

A teacher of economics at the school since 1911, Dr. Waldrat served with the War Trade board during World War I and was a special tax analyst for the U. S. treasury department in 1934.

Shooting Proves Amus-

During one lull in the fighting everybody was invited into a local cafe for a glass off vin rouge (red wine)—on the house.

During one ear-splitting tornado of machine-gun fire, the local milkman came dashing by on his cart, accompanied by pere and mere, and went right through a hail of fire without a scratch.

If the French behaved oddly,
they had nothing on the Arabs.
All through what seemed to be like quite a battle the Arab population wandered up and down the streets as though nothing was happening.

A gang of small fry came scampering out of enemy territory to cadge cigarettes.

Along about 4 p. m. someone came up through the enemy lines and stopped to ask where he could find General Ryder (Major General Charles W. Ryder).

The French had had enough, he said, and it was simply a question of finding a formula which would satisfy their honor.

Then, at 5:15 p. m., up came a car from Fort L'Empereur with a big white flag. At the same time we could hear a bugler sounding
"seize fire" from inside the fort.

The population is really elated by the arrival of the Americans and they have it clear in their heads that we are entirely on business—
the business of kicking the Axis out of Africa. That program is highly popular.

We were surprised by the behavior of the people when the first Axis planes appeared with the mistaken idea they could disrupt our reception.

The people looked on with amazement when a high-flying formation of 12 Junkers was greeted by a storm off ack-ack and then taken completely to pieces by Spit-fires and Hurricanes.

Now the French know we not only are friendly—but very potent.

HALT RAIL SERVICE,
OLD BRIDGE UNSAFE

LISBON, Nov. 13.—Freight service on the Pittsburgh, Lisbon &
Western Railroad, established 56 years ago, has been discontinued here by officials of the road as a safety measure because of the condition of the 104-foot high trestle at Elkton.

The action was taken as an emergency measure while a petition pends before the Interstate Commerce commission seeking to abandon the line because the iron structure of the 90-foot long trestle, built 56 years ago last month, had been declared unsafe for the increased freight being hailed over the line. The action carrying 50,000 volts were blown down at the plant, grounding on nearby railroad tracks. The power failure plunged the plant into darkness and shut of the pumping system which supplies water for the jacketing of the furnaces.

Water Jackets Burst

Filling with steam, the jackets on two furnaces burst and poured their contents on the five employes.
Three of the scalded workers were treated at the plant hospital and two were taken to Youngstown's
South Side hospital.

Waves 40 feet high crashed over the wind at times blew with gale velocities over 40 miles per hour.

was filed before the commission
one year ago last October.

The trestle, built on a curve across the huge Elkrun valley, was constructed to carry loads in cars off 40,000-pounds capacity, whereas present day capacity of cars range from 140,000 to 169,000 pounds. The structure is now rusted and badly in need of repairs, which can not be made because of the urgent need for iron and steel for defense.
Officials point out also that traffic over the road does not warrant the expenditure.

Freight trains will not be operated on this end of the line, but will be confined to the eastern section of the road mainly to haul coal from the Ohio river terminal at Smith's Ferry to Youngstown.
The passenger bus, hauling mail and express, will continue to operate between Lisbon and New Galilee, Pa.

Ohio C. of C. Speaker Calls For Full War Production Program

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Nov. 13 — Labor must be given elbow room to "turn loose its full power in the war production program," Clarence Eids, War Production board official, told the Ohio Chamber of Commerce today.

"It cannot do the job that there is to be done if it is hamstrung," asserted the chief of the planning unit of the war production drive. "A certain freedom of movement must be allowed. Labor cannot be an unwanted partner in government. Its participation must be whole and complete."

Bolds said certain "non-labor groups have impeded the contribution labor has wanted to make. These groups have been afraid that labor's full participation might jeopardize their own interest."

He termed the establishment of a labor requirements committee by WPB Chief Donald Nelson a start toward labor's aim of broadening its "contribution into the actual workings of the production program."

U. S. Sen. Millard E. Tydings (D) of Maryland told the chamber last night that war had endangered the American way of life. He suggested a three-pronged program to eliminate the peril: "Make sure all who occupy high governmental positions of power where policy is made and administered must be imbued and have a deep affection for our basic Americanism."

"Second, governmental appropriation, taxation, bureaucracy and personnel should be no larger than is necessary to support our armed forces and carry on the absolute essentials at home."

"Third, when this war shall have passed, it might be well for our people to adopt a requirement that hereafter in times of peace no congress shall be permitted to make an appropriation for which it does not have the necessary taxation to pay for that appropriation, either currently or within a period of not more than 25 years."

The chamber endorsed the pay-as-you-go plan of federal income tax collection and its directors opposed the $25,000 salary limitation approved by President Roosevelt.

TRUCK DRIVER DIES IN CROSSING CRASH

ELYRIA, Nov. 13.—Kenneth Edwin Morrow, 27, truck driver of Lowellville, Mahoning county, was killed and another truck driver, Lee Moriarty of Lowellville, escaped death by inches today, when a fast New York Central railroad passenger train struck their trucks at the Abbe road crossing here. They were hauling slag to an army air corps storage project here at the time of the accident.

Flying debris from the trucks inured five railroad employees, two of them seriously. Brakeman George Krugman, 58, of Elyria, suffered a fractured right leg and Yardmaster R. P. McLaughlin suffered a possible fractured skull.

Others injured were Fred Lawrence of Toledo, engineer of the passenger train and L. H. Wilson and Frank Sullivan, railroad yard employees.

Solon's Mother Dies
COLUMBUS, Nov. 13 — Mrs. Jeannine McNeill Vorys, 80, died last night. She was the mother of Congressman John M. Vorys of Columbus.

"Fixed" North Africa

It is revealed by the U. S. War department that the quick fall of some French North African colonies was due in a large measure to the daring submarine trip Maj. Gen. Mark Clark (above) made to the colonies a few days before the U. S. offensive began. The general arranged a secret rendezvous with high French army and naval officers and persuaded them to help deliver the French territory into United States' hands. As a reward for his brilliant feat, President Roosevelt has recommended Clark for promotion to a lieutenant general.

FATHERS AND SONS GATHER AT CHURCH

Hear Interesting Story of "Seeing-Eye" Dog Organization

Swindler stated that it costs about $1,000 to put a young dog through this training period although the finished product sells for $150. Each applicant for one of these dogs must go through a month of rigid training where he learns how to follow his dog and interpret his every motion.

He spoke of the extreme patience shown by the trainers of the dogs, explaining that they must go through grueling training themselves before assuming full trainership.

The youthful teacher also explained that dogs are unable to distinguish colors due to the chemical composition of the retina of the eye and therefore must use motion as a guide. They also show an amazing aptitude for remembering locations as Swindler showed by telling of his own dog who remembered the house of a friend although it had been 18 months since he had been there.

Just before concluding his talk, Swindler put his dog, "Pal", a thoroughbred German shepherd, through obedience exercises to which the dog responded immediately. The dog is five years old. Average life of a "Seeing Eye" dog is said to be from eight to 12 years.

Guard Pays Fine
SEBRING, Fla., Nov. 13.—A fine of $400 was paid by J. E. Robbs, suspended prison guard, after he pleaded nolo contendere to a charge of kicking and beating a convict, Lawrence Weaver of Newark, O., at the DeSoto city prison camp last March.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—An express train laden with American British and Fighting French troops collided with a freight train near Oxford today and two crewmen were killed.

A number of the service men were trapped temporarily in the wreckage, but none was injured seriously, authorities said.

DEATHS

OTIS F. FLICK

Otis F. Flick, 65, died at 2 p. m. Thursday at his home, 235 Ohio ave., following an illness of five years.

The son of William and Columbia Flick, he was born in Broadway, Va., Aug. 17, 1877. A retired farmer, he came to Salem five years ago.

Surviving are his wife, Bessie M.; three daughters, Mrs. Austin Bowman of Columbiana, Mrs. Glenn Rupert of East Palestine, Miss Dorothy Flick of East Palestine, two sons, Otis Flick Jr., of Salem, and Ralph at home; three sisters, Mrs. Ortelia Suiter of Washington, D. C., Miss Bertie Flick of Broadway, Va., and Mrs. Emma Flick of Indianapolis; a brother, William, of Broadway, Va., and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the home of his son, Otis Flick, 194 Fair ave., with Rev. G. D. Keister in charge. Burial will be in Hope cemetery. Friends may call at the son's home this afternoon and evening.

Laura Hope Crews Dies

NEW YORK, Nov. 13. — Laura Hope Crews, 62, stage and screen actress, died early today at the Le Roy sanatorium here after a four months illness.

Probably her best-known play was her performance as Mrs. Phelps in "The Silver Chord" in New York in 1926. The play later was produced as a movie. One of her last screen appearances was in "The Man Who Came To Dinner" in 1941.

WATERFORD WATER SYSTEM COMPLETED

NEW WATERFORD, Nov. 13.—New Waterford's $50,000 WPA water system will be placed in operation serving about 200 homes here Dec. 1, Mayor John Dreher announced.

The three miles of water lines which were laid last summer will be the first municipally operated water system in the village and will relieve residents of the responsibility of owning and operating their own water systems.

The water for the system will be furnished by two village owned wells 215 feet deep with two centrifugal pumps, each of which has a capacity of 65 gallons a minute. The pumps are wired so as to permit their operation simultaneously in case of a fire or other emergency, Dreher says. For supplying the village in normal times, however, only one pump will be used. Village voters passes a $13,000 bond issue to pay their share of the project.

SPAIN SUDDENLY BECOMES NEUTRAL

Franco's Change In Heart Follows Allied North African Triumph

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Spanish foreign policy, hitched to a program of Pro-Axis non-belligerency when Adolf Hitler was winning victory after victory, has veered suddenly toward strict neutrality as a result of the startling developments of the past week, according to reliable European sources said today.

Faced with the sudden rise of Allied power in the Mediterranean, Generalissimo Francisco Franco apparently has experienced an overnight change of heart and is trying desperately to hold his nation to a middle-of-the-road course, declared these sources whose identity cannot be disclosed.

On the north, the Spaniards now have nothing between them and the Nazis except a thin chain of mountains.

On the south lies Gibraltar and, just beyond, the powerful American and British forces which have seized control of French North Africa.

To complicate the situation, Spain's Balearic islands off the east coast of the Iberian peninsula have suddenly assumed a position of vast strategic importance to the belligerents.

BADGER ATTACK IS VERSATILE, SHOWS

Hirsch's Lengthy Sprints
Along With Harder's
Bucks Dynamite

Wide World Features
MADISON, Wis.—This football club Harry Stuhldreher has fashioned at Wisconsin, a highly rated machine since its defeat of powerful Ohio State, has a sturdy line in front of power, speed and finesse in the backfield, a versatile outfit that has never won two games the same way.
The Badgers made rocking defensive play payoff in their opening tie with Notre Dame. Wide runs and long passes rang up 28 points in a single quarter against Marquette. Against Missouri, the Badgers slashed away inside the tackles. It whipped Great Lakes on two long, spectacular runs. It beat Purdue the hard way, battering downfield in short takes. And in the Ohio State it combined all these—long runs like Elroy Hirsch's 58-yard dash which set up the first touchdown, powerful dashes through the line by Pat Harder and accurate passing (five of seven completed).

Better Than Buckeyes
Ohio State was tabbed as one of the best in the land, big and fast backs, broad and strong and speedy forwards and all perfectly conditioned to play a last quarter at first quarter pace. But the Badgers showed the Buckeyes that Wisconsin's personnel was just a trifle better all down the line than the boys in Stuhldreher's offensive is Pat (Hit 'em) Harder at fullback. The speedboy, breakaway ball-carrier is Elroy Hirsch. The quick-thinking signal-caller is Jack Wink. An all-America carryover at one end is Dave Schreiner.

Harder, as terrific a smasher as the Western conference boasts, is the work-horse. He's the experienced veteran of the foursome, the guy who's always good for that last yard or two that is needed.
The mid-west has another Galloping Ghost this year. He's the skinny sophomore, Hirsch, called "The Ghost" by his teammates. Hirsch has really made the team so dangerous, for his speed and broken field running, together with his passes, complement the punch that Harder personifies.

"Crazy Legs Kid"
Hirsch is possibly the fastest back in the conference, a chap with a crazy manner of running. One writer said Hirsch was always kicking himself in the legs, with his unusual stride. Another insisted Hirsch's feet traveled in opposite directions.
Schreiner, who distinguished himself by catching three touchdown passes in one game this year, was a standout against the Buckeyes.

Recovery In Doubt

Felled by pneumonia, Actress-Socialite Cobina Wright, Jr. (above), is in a critical condition at Columbus, Ga., where she traveled from Hollywood to be present at the graduation of her husband, Palmer Beaudette, from officers' training school at Fort Benning.

snagging a long one from Hirsch for a score that caught the Ohioans asleep.

A burly tackle, Bob Baumann, drops out of the line to do the kicking for the Badgers. His boots average around 40 yards and he can hit the coffin corners as he showed by sending one out on the four-yard stripe against Ohio.

Approximately 4,500 tons of rough steel are used in liberty cargo ships.

DEMANDS GROWING FOR LONGER WEEK
WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 — Demands for suspension of the 40-hour week rose to a new pitch in congress today amid charges that the nation's labor resources were not being used efficiently.
Senator Byrd (D-Va.) told reporters he believed the problem of speeding supplies to a large American Expeditionary Force in North Africa had tremendously increased the need of obtaining the maximum production he felt could be reached only by lengthening the work week.
"The time has come when we must press the fighting stronger and stronger every minute," Byrd declared. "We have to utilize the manpower strength of the country to the fullest extent and we are not doing that with the 40-hour week."
Byrd stressed that he was not advocating the abolition of overtime pay in war industries.
Agreeing generally with this thesis, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said he thought it might be well to suspend the premium overtime pay provision of the 40 hour week for essential civilian industries where labor already was becoming short and employers could not afford to pay wage increases because of price ceilings on their products.
Taft said he believed the manpower shortage was less critical than it had been made to appear.

F. B. I. Guards French Embassy

Following the rupture of diplomatic relations between Vichy and the U. S., the French embassy in Washington was kept under close guard. No one was permitted to enter or leave the premises and F. B. I. agents guarded the French ambassador, Gaston Henry-Haye, shown walking, center, on the embassy grounds above. Henry-Haye's passport was delivered to him by George S. Summerlin, state department chief of protocol.

WAREHOUSES KEEP MATERIALS GOING

They can Fill Orders Which Big Steel Mills Can't Bother With

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 — (Wide World)—Far less publicized than the steel mills whose roaring furnaces supply the rich color of war production, are the steel warehouses that keep pumping materials into factories.

Essentially, the warehouses are like wholesale grocers who deal with the little fellows. There are probably 500 warehouses scattered around the country.

They fill orders quickly and in comparatively small doses whereas the mills, in mass production, cannot deal in dribbles. The mills produce the steel which they sell directly to the large consumers—such as shipbuilders—or to the warehouses which then sell the finished product in a few pounds here or tons there.

Here is an extreme example of how a warehouse can fill an order which a steel mill could not touch since it is geared on a gigantic scale:

A Finger Job

A Cleveland father, annoyed by his small daughter's habit of sucking her thumb, decided that if he could make a stainless steel cap to fit over the finger she would quickly lose interest in it.

He went to the warehouse which sold him the minute piece of steel and trimmed it to his specifications. He went home then, fashioned it at his work bench, put it on the child's thumb. She let the finger alone thereafter.

Last year the mills of the country turned out 62,484,000 tons of finished steel products. Of that total 9,200,000 tons—or 14.7 of the total output—went to the warehouses.

This year, because of the terrific war demands on the mills, the warehouses probably are receiving less finished steel than in 1941.

The warehouses fill thousands of individual orders for bits and pieces. Operating under priorities, they fill orders which have an A1A rating or better. They are allowed to sell a certain percentage of steel for repairs and maintenance.

Theatre Attractions

For the first time in many pictures Bette Davis gets all the sympathy in the best role of her career, "Now Voyager", showing at the State theater tonight and Saturday, with Paul Henreid, the handsome Viennese player, as her leading man.

Gladys Cooper portrays the part of her strict mother who brings on the nervous breakdown of the daughter. While recuperating on a boat cruise, she meets and falls in love with Mr. Henreid.

A double feature, "Law of the Timber" and "The Cyclone Kid", is on at the Grand. Also showing is the 12 week serial, "King of the Mounties".

Each miner from government-closed gold mine, if working in a copper mine, can dig enough copper in one month for the copper content of six heavy tanks.

Pilgrim in MANHATTAN by MARGARET BELL HOUSTON

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

Rann remained at Robincote that night, awaiting a long-distance call. Hugh and Chloe drove back to New York with the Dillons. Hester was wrapped in aables, her perfume vaguely oppressive in the soft, dark inclosure.

"What became of Rolly?" Thorne asked.

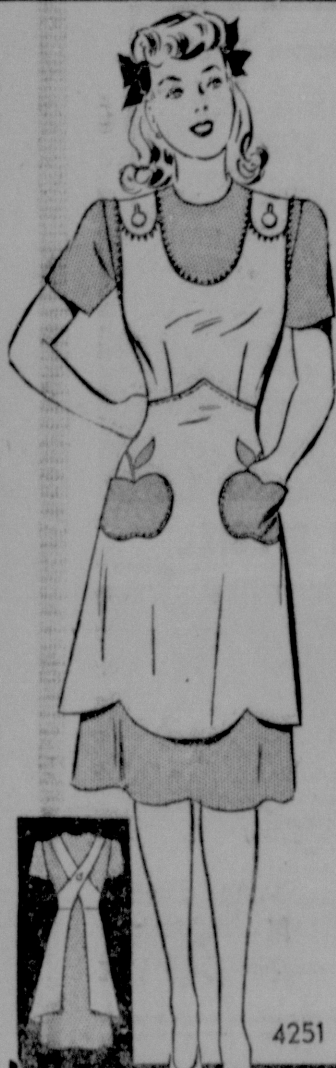

Hester explained that Rolly had left early. Another engagement. She had devoted herself to Hugh during the latter part of the evening, had shown him the light-house. No one was really initiated at Robincote till he had seen the light-house, she said. So many people had started things in its shadow, became engaged, or something.

On the drive into New York she spoke of Rann, and of Rann, Jr. "If ever there was a brat, and a spoiled one . . ."

"Junior's all right," said Thorne amiably.

"He was decent enough when Adele was alive," Hester replied, "though Adele was always ill. Now, with no one to discipline him—He discharged his tutor, not long ago, and betook himself to the village school. Did you ever hear of a child of nine firing his instructor?"

Today's Pattern

GAY APPLE APPLIQUES

Gay Apple style on the "home front" is Pattern 4251 by Anne Adams. With apple pockets, and tie-tie it makes a very attractive Christmas gift. Notice the smooth fit through the waist; the crossover straps that unbutton at the shoulders for flat-spread ironing.

Pattern 4251 is available in sizes small, medium, large. Small size takes 2 1/4 yards 35 inch fabric and 1/4 yard contrast.

by Anne Adams

"Adele had selected him," remarked Hester. "And Rann should not have backed the child up. The tutor wouldn't go till Rann came home, and then he found that Junior's orders were sufficient. Indulgence may be all right, but to have a place like Robincote virtually run for a youngster, his pet goat, his pony, and his bicycle—"

"The kid's lonely," said Thorne.

"With a household of servants, and Rann continually on the wire from Washington or out here whenever he's not tied up in town?"

"Rann ought to marry," said Thorne.

Hester was silent, and Thorne changed the subject:

"From the south, Mr. Richards?"

"South Carolina," Hugh replied, roused from his deep quiet.

"Fine country," commented Thorne and spoke of a winter he had spent in Aiken, of polo and riding to hounds. "That was a long time ago."

Chloe was thinking of Rann, of how they had parted, of what he had said about Hugh. They had walked out on the pier, standing over the moon-washed bay, had talked of the future, and what it held. They were happy. Nothing else mattered.

The library was empty when they came back to the house. Rann said, "Wait here. I'll go where the others are a bit, then I'll come back." And he had kissed her again, there in the frelight, in the presence of Katrina Van Damm.

She stood where he had left her, looking at his back. Priceless old things. Shelves and shelves of them. She was not thinking of the books. She was thinking of her own happiness, awed by it. Awed by her willingness to trust everything to Rann. He had said not to worry about Hugh.

"As long as you don't love him," "But I do."

"Because he needs you. When you love a man because he needs you, that's the material instinct in you."

He came back, and they sat on the divan before the fire.

"Now, about Hugh," his arm around her, sitting in the still room with the books and the frelight.

"Don't think I don't sympathize with him, or want you to give him a square deal. You nursed him through an illness when he didn't want to get well, when he wanted to die because his career was a flop. And so you feel responsible for him. But that's no reason for marriage, and he'd say so himself, if he knew."

"I can't tell him," Chloe said. "Not yet."

"How long," smiled Rann, "is he going to be too frail to face the facts?"

"It's not only that, though, of course, you don't know how ill he really was, nor how a thing like that hangs on. It was a sort of nervous breakdown along with the flu, and the nurse said it might be a year . . . from last November, I mean."

He'd hate this discussion of him. He'd hate my speaking of him as if he were an invalid. And it's not only that. He's working on a play, and—"

"Chloe, you're a darling. Whenever I want my own way, I'll know precisely how to get it. And I don't mean by working on a play."

"Thanks for the warning. The gentleman is my client, and I'm fostering his career."

"Go right on fostering it," said Rann, "and I'll help you. He deserves to succeed. His poetry shows genius, there's no question about that. Olive is interested, by the way. She'll arrange a reading for him."

"You won't be there—when Hugh reads?"

"Can't make it. But it won't be long now, and don't worry about Hugh," he said. "We'll fatten him up and foster his career, and then he'll take it on the chin."

"He'd take it on the chin, anyhow," she said.

Hugh didn't want to go to bed that night. He came into Chloe's apartment and she made him coffee. The fire went out, and there was no wood upstairs, and no heat in the radiators. Chloe wrapped herself in the buffalo rug and sat curled on the couch, her taffeta skirts tucked around her. They talked in desultory fashion about the evening and the people they had met.

"Miss Buren knows my work," Hugh said. "She read the sonnets that came out in the Review and 'Isle of Pines,' too."

Those were among the poems that Chloe had typed and given to Rann. Hugh was stirred and abstracted, in a sort of dream, because of what Olive had said about his poems. Perhaps Rann was right. Perhaps it was going to be easier than she had thought.

He went, at last, and Chloe crept into bed to lie there, thinking about Rann, to go over every moment of their time together. She closed her eyes and saw again the old blind highhouse and the moon lying over the bay. Still, she lay, her heart throbbing, feeling Rann's arms around her again.

No one ever kissed me before, she thought.

A sudden familiar sound brought her back to earth, the thump and putter of the typewriter in Hugh's room.

He was working on his play. The windows were growing light. The cool dawn breeze stole into the room.

Chloe, sitting in Olive Buren's drawing-room and listening to Hugh read his selected poems, thought of the good fortune which had come to him recently through the sale of his own family's mansion in Charleston. The price had been high and the proceeds divided among the heirs. Hugh's share was sufficiently large to give a real lift to his spirits. "Richards is himself again," said observing friends.

Chloe had never seen him just like this, so assured, so at ease, the bitterness gone from his mouth, the cloud from his eyes. His very voice seemed different.

At the first news of good fortune he had said to Chloe, "Now we can be married."

She had discouraged this plausibly enough. His work was just beginning. And there was his play. It was no time to burden himself with marriage.

"Burden, Chloe?"

"Yes, burden. This money must be invested. The interest will be just about enough for you to live on without worrying."

He had brooded, and she had written to Rann. Rann's letters came almost daily. When Chloe, in the morning, ran down to the mailbox and there was no letter from Rann, she felt a vague blankness all day. But there was sure to be a long-distance call that night.

This was a complication, wrote Rann. But wait. It would work out all right in the end. He was coming up for a weekend as soon as he could.

Chloe's eyes strayed across the audience, ranged on the small gilt chairs that supplemented Olive's antiques, till they rested on Olive. She was lovely, Chloe thought. I love her for listening to Hugh like that, for wanting to help him.

Thorne and Hester Dillon were there together. Hester's dress was claret-red, her bracelets big as shackles and set with lumps of dark glitter. A small cone-shaped hat, chic and crazy, was tilted on her black hair.

Thorne Dillon, standing in the door, spied Chloe, and made the circuit of the dim room to join her where she sat apart on one of the larger chairs.

"A picked crowd," he commented in a whisper. "The intellectuals, the insurgents, and the industrialists."

"And the influential, I hope," murmured Chloe.

"In a body." And he pointed out some noted critics.

"They'll all come for Olive," remarked Thorne, and joined in the moment's applause. "Is it possible," he added, "for any one to feel as rapt as Enid looks?"

Enid sat not far away in a dress of gray satin with spreading skirt and long, tight sleeves, a thread of stars flitting her loose gold curls. She seemed rapt, indeed, in Hugh's eloquent reading. Her escort was Cliff Schuyler.

Sitting on Top of the World

That headline above is slightly erroneous, but it seemed to flow out. The gentleman pictured is an Allied aircraft spotter sitting in a chair atop "Ack-Ack Hill," near Port Moresby, Australian New Guinea, Allied base which has been heavily bombed by Jap raiders many times. The spotter reads a magazine as he watches for signs of the enemy's approaching. He looks out upon the Gulf of Papua, which flows into the Coral Sea.

Chloe had to leave immediately after the reading because she had a recital of her own that evening.

Thorne Dillon went with her as she slipped out. Passing Hester, he leaned over her chair, explaining that he was taking Miss Cameron home. Chloe was saying goodbye to Olive.

They were not long in reaching Tuckaway street.

"When are we going to have lunch together?" he asked. "I've planned you twice, and your secretary said you were out."

That would have been Gay, sewing beside the telephone while Hugh worked on his play.

"I know you haven't time for social affairs at midday," he continued, "but this is business."

She smiled. "Still want to go on the platform?"

"Not necessarily. But I may need one of your performers. How about tomorrow?"

It was not possible tomorrow or Tuesday, but she could make it Thursday.

Tunisian Port of Bizerte in War News

Bizerte, the chief port of Tunisia, French North African protectorate which separates Algeria from Italian Libya, is projected into the war news. Bizerte, the northernmost point in Africa, would be a valuable port for the Allies. Some observers in London pointed out that if the Axis attempted to counter the Allied invasion its efforts would be directed through Bizerte. Another report stated the French fleet was bound for Bizerte in a move to defend Tunisia. President Roosevelt has sent a message to the Bey of Tunisia, Sisi Moncel Pacha, asking for the "privilege" of passing through the protectorate. Bizerte is 38 miles northwest of Tunis, the capital of Tunisia.

HOARDERS SUGAR GOES TO THE DOGS
SYRACUSE, N. Y. — Eighty pounds of sugar were sacrificed because of the ring of a bell and a housewife's guilty conscience. "I didn't answer because I thought he was investigating," the woman told her neighbor after the uniformed man had waited at the door, and left. "But I dumped 80 pounds of sugar down the drain." "He was from the S. P. C. A. rounding up unlicensed dogs," the neighbor told her.

FIRST GRADE HIGHWAY ROBBERY

ZANESVILLE — Mystery: Who stole the 3,000-pound road grader? Muskingum and Perry county officials would like very much to know. It disappeared from a highway in Madison township, Perry county, where it had been used in recent local stripping operations. Deputy Sheriff March Summers theorized that the grader, a motorless type, might have been taken apart and carried away piecemeal. Anyway, it's gone—and township roads are going unattended.

DEAD ANIMALS CAN HELP WAR

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—Even a dead farm animal can do its bit in the war effort, says Dr. J. H. Reitz, veterinarian of the West Virginia university agricultural experiment station. "Dr. Reitz says fats are needed for war, and dead beasts are an excellent source not only of fat, but also of fertilizer, poultry feed and other products. He urged farmers not to bury

TEACHER MAKES HOBBY OF SUBBING

BLUFFTON — Wilford Geiger, high school science teacher, has made a specialty of substituting. He is substituting as deputy village clerk for Jim West, now in the Army. He is driving a school bus for one of the drivers who had an operation. In his spare time, he clerks in a clothing store evenings and paints houses during vacations.

WRESTLERS SURE OF ONE FAN, ANYWAY

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — Prospective students of Patrolman Marion Mynster's new wrestling class were somewhat perturbed when the officer asked for a donation of an 18 by 24 inch exhaust fan. Munster, a former pupil of Farmer Burns, explained that "wrestlers need lots of fresh air, and it will take an exhaust fan to make that gymnasium fit for strenuous conditioning."

DUBUQUE CAPTURES CONFERENCE TITLE

End Emil Lussow Shines As Iowans Finish Year Unbeaten

DUBUQUE, Ia.—Dubuque university once deemphasized athletics and withdrew from intercollegiate competition—but you'd never know it now.

The little university with only 178 male students has won its second Iowa conference football championship in three years and ranks among the select few of the nation's undefeated and untied teams. The Spartans, as Dubuque's teams are known, rolled up 257 points while holding their foes to 25 in seven conference games.

It was back in 1925 that intercollegiate sports were dropped by a new university administration which stressed intramural competition. The change, however, didn't prove satisfactory and Dubuque returned to conference participation in 1928.

There were many lean years before the school again became a power in determining conference championships. The tide definitely turned in 1939 when Kenneth (Moco) Mercer, former Simpson college and Frankfort, Yellow Jackets professional football star, became head coach of all sports.

Dubuque's 1939 team won four games and lost four, taking four of six conference games. This was followed by an undefeated championship team in 1940, the season in which the Spartans followed through with title-winning basketball, track and tennis teams.

Dubuque lost all except its tennis title in 1941. The football crown went to Luther, a traditional rival, but Mercer's men got the football championship back this fall and prospects are good for the other sports this year.

Mercer, who uses the single wing most of the time, occasionally switching to punt formation, or to the T, had 34 players on his roster including 13 lettermen.

Emil Lussow, a 6-2, 193-pound Oak Park, Ill. boy was the star of the team. An end, he scored 73 points in the first seven games, ten touchdowns coming on passes.

Charles Feutz, a little fellow who also lives at Oak Park, does most of the passing, and he also is a high scorer, his top performance being five touchdowns against Iowa Wesleyan.

Killed 200 Japs On Guadalcanal

Marine Private Albert Schmid of Philadelphia, 22 (in bed), recounts his battle at Guadalcanal against a Japanese contingent which attempted to cross the Tenaru river last Aug. 21. Handling a blistering hot machine gun, he killed 200 of the advancing Japs before one of them managed to toss a hand grenade which exploded in his face, blinding one eye. He is shown at a San Diego, Cal., hospital where he is recuperating. At right is Corporal Leroy Diamond of New York City who fed Schmid's gun with ammunition until being wounded.

FAIRFIELD

Rev. Paul Yoder spent the weekend at Marietta and conducted services at a C. O. camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith of East Liverpool Mr. and Mrs. Burdette and daughter, Shirley, of Wellsville were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Schwab, Sunday.

Visit in Cleveland

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Graham and family were weekend guests of her brother, Earl Cope, and family of Cleveland.

Miss Ruth Morris of Columbus, was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Morris, over the weekend.

Ira Esterly and daughter, Mrs. Donald DeTroy, and her house guest, Miss Mercy Davidson of Pittsburgh, enjoyed Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. John Cope.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rupert entertained at a family dinner, Tuesday evening, as a courtesy to her brother, Edgar Moore of Glendale, Calif., who is spending a vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Moore of Salem and local relatives and friends.

Mrs. Carrie Graham is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. George Everett and family of near Lisbon.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Graham entertained six friends of their son, Donald, at a six o'clock dinner last Thursday evening. Guests included Charles Cope, Robert Chellis and Jack Rersch, who are home on a ten-day furlough from the Great Lakes Naval Training station.

Guests At Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Shockley were guests at a dinner Sunday in the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gay Zellers, in celebration of the 12th birthday anniversary of their daughter, Joan. A lovely birthday cake with candles, centered the dining table, laid for ten. The honoree was remembered with gifts. A letter, almost three yards in length, was written to Ross Shockley who is stationed at Camp Edwards, Mass., each guest contributing.

The local Junior class has chosen for its class play, a farce entitled, "His Name Was Nellie." The cast has been selected and rehearsals are progressing nicely under the direction of the class advisor, Miss

Quakers, Lisbon Ready For Annual Battle Tomorrow

OVERTURF TO USE OLD LINEUP; TEAM AFTER THIRD WIN

Quakers Wind Up Drills In Preparation For Grid Contest

Reverting back to his mixed lineup once more after starting an all-senior aggregation against Alliance last week, Coach Ray Overturf announced today that his squad is all set for tomorrow's battle with the Lisbon Blue Devils, a county foe, at Reilly stadium at 3 p. m.

After resting Monday evening, the Quakers went through tough workouts Tuesday and Wednesday and put on the finishing touches to their drills with a bruising scrimmage session yesterday. They will conclude training with a brief session today.

The Quakers are not taking their rivals lightly especially after last season's near debacle at the hands of the Lisbon eleven. It took the Salem team everything it had to eke out a 14-13 over an inspired bunch of gridders who simply refused to be beaten—easily.

Neither team has chalked up an enviable record this season but the Blue Devils hold a slight edge in this respect. In eight games, they have scored three wins while losing five while the locals have managed to win only two games out of their first eight. Lisbon defeated Columbiana, Minerva and Chester, W. Va., while Quaker victories came at the expense of Sebring and Ravenna early in the season.

Despite their poor seasonal mark, the Quakers have shown flashes of topnotch football although in most instances their bid has come too late. Against Youngstown South and Alliance, they played good ball throughout the opening quarter, then bowed to superior grid talent. In other defeats, the opponents had a triple-threat star who seemed to take the Quakers as cussins—Dawson of East Liverpool, Korora of Akron Central, Jim Novotny of Struthers and Merle Wylie of Youngstown South. All were vastly instrumental in setting up their teams' scores and bringing defeat to the Quakers.

Starting Lineups
Coach Overturf stated that his probable starting lineup will include Walt Kraus and Al Kenst at ends, Glenn Weigand and Diane Thomas at tackles, Gordy Sharts and Carmen Nocera at guards and Perry Whitacre at center. In the backfield will be Dick Lantz at quarter, Frank Entenken and Dick Greene at the halves and Ray Wise at fullback.

4,000 Pro Athletes Are Serving Nation

NEW YORK—Champions, near-champions and lesser lights among the country's athletes have flocked into the armed services by the thousands.

From the baseball diamonds, the football fields, the boxing rings, the race tracks, big time golf, the tennis courts and from every other branch of sports have come a horde of soldiers, sailors, marines and fliers now in training or engaged in combat duty.

The list includes nearly 1,500 baseball players, a hundred of them from the major leagues; more than 1,600 boxers; 200 professional football players from the National league; 180 members of the National Professional Golf association, a half hundred jockeys, a score of standout tennis players and hundreds of others from other forms of athletics.

Literally hundreds who but for the war would be on the college gridirons are now in the services, with the ranks to be further swelled.

Hank Greenberg, Bob Feller, John Rigney, Hugh Mulcahy, Ted Lyons, Cecil Travis, and Phil Rizzuto are among the many stand-out ball players who are in some branch of the service.

Four of boxing's world title-holders—Joe Louis, Gus Lesnevich, Tony Zale and Freddie (Red) Cochrane—head the list of boxers in uniform.

From the pro football ranks are dozens of the top-notch performers, and the golfers include National Professional Champion Sam Snead and National Amateur Champion Bud Ward.

Ted Schroeder, national tennis champion, and such leading riders as Irving Anderson, Basil James, Ralph Neves and Robert Vedder are out of sports for the duration.

BUFFALO PINS 5-1 SETBACK ON REDS

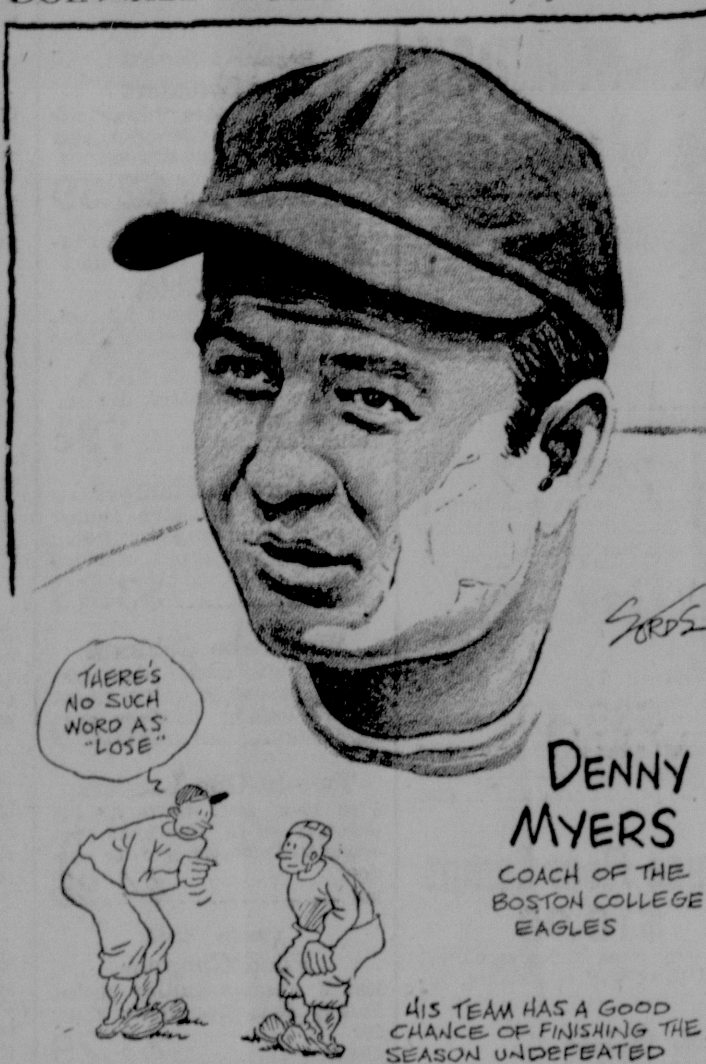

(By Associated Press)

The Buffalo Bisons defeated the Providence Reds, 5-1 last night although they played without Fred Thurier, the American hockey league's leading scorer. He was in Montreal to confer with his draft board.

By winning, the Bisons increased their western division lead to three points over the second-place Indianapolis Capitals.

There were no other games last night.

Powerful, Speedy Line Sparks Undeclared Eagles Of Boston College; Holovak Great Back

Forward Wall Is Nation's Outstanding Defensive Unit. Has Stuff To Make "T" Plays Click; Bouley, Canale Are Keystones

By DILLON GRAHAM
Wide World Sports Editor
NEW YORK—Our scout up Boston way, Steve O'Leary, is sold on the football Eagles of Boston College. He figures B. C. should finish its season without a setback and says some experts rate this club as better than the unbeaten 1940 outfit.

Here's Scout O'Leary's report. Take it away, Steve:

"This team is considerably different from the 1940 edition. B. C. now operates out of a T-formation in contrast to the variation of the Notre Dame system used two years ago when Frank Leahy was head coach.

"Its giant line—the nation's outstanding defensive unit—has the speed and power to make the T plays click and B. C.'s record is due in large part to the offensive and defensive fire of this great forward wall.

"The 1940 line was a well-knit, swashbuckling group but this year's string of seven Eagles need not yield to them in any department.

Have Good Terminals
"Flanked by a fine pair of ends in Don Currian and Charlie Furbush, the Eagles have several candidates for national honors in the line in Rocco Canale, a cat-like guard for all his 235 pounds; Gil Bouley, slashing tackle who was torn opposing lines to ribbons; and Fred Naumetz, co-captain, who ranks close to Chet Gladchuk, the 1940 All-America center.

"Mike Holovak is one of the great backs of the land, a shifty, powerful runner who hasn't had a bad day all year. He's averaged better than 100 yards gain rushing per game and is a terror in combat duty.

COLLEGE GRIDDRERS BETTER '41 MARKS

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Collegiate football not only is continuing its trend toward greater offense under wartime conditions, but it is doing it with an even greater economy of effort.

The nation's gridiron teams were averaging 223.8 yards a game on the basis of figures released today by the American football statistical bureau. This compared with a 1941 final average of 221.8 yards per team per game.

And where last year's collegians averaged a point for every 16 yards gained, they're getting that point this year by traveling only 15 yards. As a result, 1942 teams are boasting of a 14.98 point a game average to the 13.75 of last year.

The statistical bureau's reason for it was greater scoring finesse and even better coaching methods. The advance in total offense can be attributed to superior running attacks, for at forward passing the country's footballers slipped from 1941 when they averaged 80.6 yards per game and also established a record for percentage of completions.

The most offensive minded section of the nation is the mid-west where major teams are averaging 247.7 yards a game per team, although running second to the southwest in actual scoring.

Wesleyan Cancels Game
DELAWARE, Nov. 13.—The football game scheduled Saturday between Ohio Wesleyan and Boston University at Boston will not be played until after the war. It was cancelled because of transportation difficulties.

BARKER PREDICTS WINS FOR TULSA, IRISH, OSU, TECH

Swami Also Likes Texas, Boston College, LSU to Capture Frays

By HERB BARKER
NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Reserving the right to demand a recount after all the returns are in this football guesser goes along his in-corrugible way:

Michigan-Notre Dame: You can tie yourself into a fine knot if you try to come up with the winner of this one by looking over their records and draw the appropriate comparisons. The coin says...

Notre Dame-Alabama-Georgia Tech: This is precisely in the same category. Doubtful, Georgia Tech.

Ohio State-Illinois: Very close. However, this guesser strings along with Ohio State.

Wisconsin-Northwestern: The Badgers should have recovered from their shocking upset by Iowa and rate the nod.

Fordham-Boston College: The undefeated Eagles look far too tough for this Fordham outfit. Boston.

Texas-Texas Christian: The Horned Frogs seem to have run into a slump. Texas.

Baylor-Tulsa: Tulsa.

Missouri-Oklahoma: This should be the spot for the Tigers to clinch the Big Six crown again. Missouri.

Yale-Princeton: Both in-and-outers. Out of the hat... Princeton.

Oregon-Southern California: Southern California.

Columbia-Navy: Governor will test Navy's aerial defenses to the limit but the vote must go to the Midshipmen.

Dartmouth-Cornell: Cornell.

Brown-Harvard: Sheer guessing. Brown.

Colgate-Syracuse: Ditto. Syracuse.

Duquesne-Mississippi State: Looks like Duquesne simply hasn't got it this season. Mississippi State.

Holy Cross-Temple: Holy Cross. Stubbornly.

Nebraska-Pitt: Maybe the spot for Pitt to get back on the track. Pitt.

Penn State-Penn: Usually close Penn.

Virginia Tech-Army: Tech has a good outfit but seems overmatched. Army.

Auburn-Louisiana State: Not easy. L. S. U.

Duke-North Carolina: Stringing along with Duke.

Georgia-Chattanooga: A good workout for unbeaten Georgia.

Iowa-Minnesota: Doubtfully. Minnesota.

Kansas State-Indiana: No contest. Indiana.

Mississippi-Tennessee: Tennessee.

Oregon State-Stanford: Taking Stanford.

Purdue-Michigan State: Enlie, meenie... Michigan State.

Texas A. & M.-Rice: Even-Stephen. The Aggies.

Arkansas-Southern Methodist: Should be S. M. U.

West Virginia-Kentucky: West Virginia.

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Did you know that there's a football team representing one of the "major" eastern colleges that is undefeated so far and hasn't had a nickel's worth of publicity about it? The team is Princeton's 150-pound outfit, which may come through to another title if it can knock off Penn today. The lightweights get only four games this year, since Yale and Lafayette suspended operations in the eastern 150-pound league.

Today's Guest Star
Jack Clower, Cleveland News: "The inventive genius of the modern scientist is likely to figure the answers to anything. They know how to knock out stukas, put the kibosh on pneumonia in a few days and operate planes with no human beings in them. It will only be another decade or two before they learn how to stop Don Hutson."

Shorts and Shells
Although the Sun Bowl game has been called off, El Paso fans like their post-season football so much that they've invited the second air force team from Fort George Wright, Wash., to play there Dec. 12, probably against Hardin-Simmons. The Miners' bowling team of Chicago needed only an hour and 45 minutes to roll a 3234 score recently, which should be a lesson to athletes who claim you have to "take your time" to be good.

High School High Jinks
Here are some of the kids that High school grid fans think are the season's champs (no college scouts are allowed to beat the starting gun): Bob Lucas of Paulding, O. High has scored 272 points and gained 1,714 yards from scrimmage in seven games.

Juke Honn of Anamost, Ia., completed 77 of the first 84 passes he threw this season for 1,434 yards.

And Bob "General" Lee of New Castle, Pa., has gained 1,145 yards by rushing in 130 tries, completed 21 of 45 passes, scored 15 touchdowns and, as safety man, hasn't let an opponent get past him to score. Oh yes, he does the punting and calls the signals.

OSU, ILLINOIS SET FOR LOOP BATTLE; BUCKS RATED EDGE

McCafferty May Replace Willis In Lineup For Ohioans

By JOHN H. COLBURN

CLEVELAND, Nov. 13.—Records and other statistical paraphernalia of the "form" players went out the window today as Ohio State and Illinois came here for their Western conference title-bearing football game in Cleveland's lakefront stadium tomorrow.

The chips will be down for a loss would topple one of the teams from the top conference rung they now share with Iowa. So you can forget the records which show Ohio hasn't lost to Illinois since 1934 and holds a 16 to 12 edge in games won—with two tied—in 30 years of Ohio-Illinois gridiron rivalry.

Offensively and defensively, the statistics of this year's play give the Bucks an edge but this is a new football era for the Illini and statistics don't count. They didn't against Minnesota and Northwestern when ball-stealing won for the alert Illini.

Expect 60,000 Fans
These two elevens are famous for staging hair-raising games and this may be no exception for the 60,000 or more fans who'll brave the breezes of Lake Erie to see the tilt which was shifted from Champaign, Ill.

Ohio and Illinois were scheduled for brief workouts this afternoon in the stadium to "warm-up" after their train rides here.

Closing their heavy workouts at Columbus yesterday, the Bucks based up on passing practice and devoted most of a fast, snappy session to formulating defenses to stop the Illini's swift attack.

For the first time this season, Ohio will run up against an opposing line that can match the Bucks in speed—and speed, if the footing is dry, is expected to play a big part in the game's outcome.

Dick Good Out
Illinois' ace passer, Halfback Dick Good, is suffering from knee injuries and may be unable to play.

Ohio may start the same lineup that it did against Pitt with the possible exception of Don McCafferty of Cleveland replacing William Willis, Columbus sophomore, at left tackle. Willis was on the bench with a lame leg last week.

Illinois has lost only two games, to Notre Dame 21 to 14 and Michigan 28 to 14. It beat South Dakota 46 to 0, Butler 67 to 0, Minnesota 20 to 14, Iowa 12 to 7, and Northwestern 14 to 7.

Ohio was upset by Wisconsin 17 to 7, in a game which knocked the Bucks from the national leadership and won from Fort Knox 59 to 0, Indiana 32 to 21, Southern California 28 to 12, Purdue 26 to 0, Northwestern 20 to 6 and Pittsburgh 59 to 19.

Bucks, Illini To "Give All," With Big 10 Title At Stake

By JOHN COLBURN

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13.—They'll pull the stopper at the Ohio State-Illinois football tilt in Cleveland tomorrow!

Here's a football natural... Western conference championship aspirations of both teams hinge on the outcome... both elevens are fast outfits packing a knock-out punch... and Illinois, with its best team in years, will be endeavoring to break a seven-year losing record in contests with the Bucks.

There's still a lot of uncertainty about how many persons will witness this crucial scrap... Ohio State athletic officials believe the attendance may surpass the 65,000 mark set by Notre Dame and Navy in Cleveland stadium... But everyone concerned with the ticket sale has been having trouble getting together for an accurate count.

Ohio scouts have quickly passed the word along to the Buck players that Minnesota has a good chance of upsetting Iowa... the Hawkeyes now share the conference lead with Ohio and Illinois... a loss for Iowa and a win for Ohio would put State alone in the first place.

Hank Gowdy, Cincinnati Red coach and Columbus winter resident, has been turned down by the army. Hank, now 53, was the first major leaguer to enlist in the first World War... and old-timers will recall him as the 1914 World series hero of Boston.

Chet Mutryn, Xavier's stellar back, isn't taken lightly by Xavier opponents. Said Harold Wise, assistant Ohio U. coach who scouted the Marshal-Xavier game: "Xavier goes with Mutryn... its entire attack seemed to be built around Mutryn running Mutryn throwing or Mutryn catching passes."

Dr. Dave Reese, Dayton football official, found himself in a tight spot as field judge in the Wisconsin-Iowa upset last week.

The field judge must check the time... and watch the forward progress of the ball on goal-line plays... with the Badgers leading 6 to 0, here was how Reese pictured his situation to the Dayton Agonists club:

Wisconsin had the ball on Iowa's one yard line with four downs but only seconds to go on first down Fullback Pat Harder gained only a couple of inches... the clock ticked away and Wisconsin lined up quickly for another play... Reese had to keep his eye on the ball and the clock to determine whether the play started before the period ended... the ball again went back to Harder, but his interference jammed up on him and he was stopped at the goal just as the seconds ticked down to zero and Reese fired the shot that signaled a win for Iowa.

"It was the toughest spot, for things to do, I've ever been in," Reese declared.

GRAY'S BODY SHOP 292 W. STATE ST. PH. 6213 (Formerly Monks' Garage) Quality work — Reasonable prices

Paced by Doc Gallagher and Pat Bolen, who fired 224 and 208, respectively. The Timekeepers of the Mullins league drubbed Shell Line 1 3-0, at the Grate Alley last night to take a firmer hold on first place.

The second place Production five found the going rather tough against the Tool & Die and lost two games, thus losing more ground to the leaders. Chick DeCrow turned in a 222 game and 597 series for Inspection although his team dropped a pair of verdicts to the Cutters. Gus DeCrow had a 207 game.

In other league action, Army Inspection defeated the Millwrights, 2-1, and the Office captured two from Shell Line 2.

Although idle last night, the Draftsmen went into first place in the Electric Furnace league as the Purchasing five dropped all three games of its match to Electrical at the Masonic alleys last night.

Night Shift A lost a fine chance to move into the No. 1 spot as they bowed to Night Shift B, 2-1. The Machinists scored a shutout win over the last place Structurals to move up a notch and the Shippers eked out two wins over the Transformers.

Why Desert Fox Rommel Fell Into British Trap

One of the reasons the famed desert fox, Erwin Rommel, couldn't escape from the British onslaught in North Africa was the rapid destruction of his aircraft, some of which are seen at Daba airfield, Egypt, where British bombers wrecked destruction before they could take to the air.

United States Purchasing Officer Teaches Australian People the Necessity of Speed

(By International News Service)

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA—Here's a requisition for a hearse—

"There's a plane going north in an hour. They want 100 cartons of cigarettes and 250 boxes of wax matches."

"Air Force headquarters want to know how their fire-fighting trucks are coming along."

"How soon can we get a Silver Star engraved for a pilot down from Darwin?"

These requests are typical of the barrage that ascends upon Captain E. N. Leeb, of Chicago, Ill., each day. He received the above selection in less than five minutes.

Leeb is quartermaster purchasing officer for the U. S. Army "somewhere in Australia."

He does most of his buying from Australian tradespeople. By doing so he takes advantage of reverse lend-lease, saves shipping, and, more important, he gets what he wants faster.

For speed is all important to an army at war. Australian business men have discovered that the U. S. Army waits for no man. Those who said they would have to consult their board when asked to manufacture certain items they'd never dreamed of making, let orders.

Here are some of the items Leeb bought or ordered made during one day recently: the city's whole supply of fans, gloves for American nurses, whistles, doughmaking machinery, garbage cans, butchers' saws, hundreds of rubber stamps (some red tape is necessary), and thousands of thumb tacks — again the city's whole available supply.

In addition he arranged to have some officers' quarters furnished, completed a deal with a ship in port for the retraining of hundreds of automobile tires (the army is rubber conscious too), and the repairing of several dozen typewriters.

All this is giving Australian industry a tremendous fillip; teaching manufacturers that they can accomplish things they had regarded as impossible or, even more typically, as "too much trouble."

And if that were not enough for Leeb, he has another job. He is assistant graves registration officer!

One of the earliest ways of measuring time was by burning a candle or stick.
